5. Cookies and Similar Technologies

We and our third-party partners use cookies and similar technologies (e.g., web beacons, pixels, ad tags and device identifiers) to recognize you and/or your device(s) on, off and across different Services and devices. This helps us to provide you with the best possible experience when you browse our website and allows us to improve our site.

For detailed information on the cookies and similar technologies we and our third-party partners use, the purposes for which we use them, and how to disable them, see below. You can also visit allaboutcookies.org to learn more about managing cookies and similar technologies.

Cookies:

We automatically collect information through the use of cookies. Cookies are small text files stored by your Web browser. Cookies allow us to identify and authenticate visitors, track aggregate behavior, and enable important site features (such as storing items placed in your shopping cart between visits). For instance, we or authorized third parties may use cookies to help maintain the integrity of video statistics, prevent fraud and to improve the site experience.

We use both session ID cookies and persistent cookies. A session ID cookie expires when you close your browser. The use of cookies by our partners is not covered by this Privacy Policy.

Web Beacons / Pixels:

Web beacons, also called pixel tags or tracking pixels, are invisible images as small as 1x1 pixel in size that are embedded in web pages and emails, requiring a call (which provides device and visit information) to our servers for the pixel to be rendered in those web pages and emails. We use pixels to learn more about your interactions with email content or web content, such as whether you interacted with ads or posts. Pixels can also enable us and third parties to place cookies on your browser.

They may automatically receive your IP address when this happens. These third-party advertisers may also place cookies on your computer or use other technologies such as JavaScript and web beacons to measure the effectiveness of their ads and to personalize advertising content. Doing this allows the advertising network to recognize your device each time they send you an advertisement to measure the effectiveness of their ads and to personalize advertising content. In this way, they may compile information about where individuals using your computer or browser saw their advertisements and determine which advertisements are clicked. Third-Party Advertisers may also serve advertisements to you on other websites, based on their tracking of what content you viewed or interacted with on our Websites, Apps, or other GameStop property. We do not have control over how these third-party advertisers use information from these technologies, nor is that activity governed by this Privacy Policy. For more information about this practice and the choices you have to restrict the information used by these companies, please refer to the 'Your Rights and Choices' section of this privacy policy.

Digital Advertising:

Third-party advertising companies serve ads on our behalf across the Internet. They may collect information about your browsing activities through cookies on other sites, and then display personalized ads on various sites that you visit. Data collected on our websites and applications may be provided to third-party advertising partners, such as LiveRamp (<https://liveramp.com/privacy/>) or Criteo (<https://www.criteo.com/privacy/>). This information may also be provided to their demand partners for interest-based advertising.

Social Media:

Our Sites include social media features, such as the Facebook 'Like' button and widgets, the 'share this' widget, or interactive mini programs that run on our site. These features may collect your IP address, which page you are visiting on our Site, and may set a cookie to enable the feature to function properly. Mobile App Advertising and Tracking:

We may collect personal information from your mobile device, including unique advertising identifiers and the names and IDs of apps you have installed, as well as information about how you use our mobile applications and other unaffiliated applications. We and our partners use this personal information to enable interest-based advertising you receive through our Services and within third-party apps and other marketing channels.

We use web analytics tools to improve the user experience of our Services. These tools use cookies and similar technologies to collect and analyze information about user behavior on the Services, such as mouse movements, clicks, user inputs, scrolling, access times, visit duration, pages viewed, IP address (including approximate location), operating system, and page reloading. This information helps us understand what works and what doesn't work for users of the Services and allows us to identify and fix technical issues that may be hindering the functionality of the Services. When you discontinue the use of our services, we will retain your personal information for as long as necessary to comply with our legal obligations, to resolve disputes and defend claims, as well as for any additional purpose based on the choices you have made, such as to receive marketing communications.

Once retention of your personal information is no longer necessary for the purposes outlined above, we will either delete or de-identify the personal information or, if this is not possible (for example, because personal information has been stored in backup archives), then we will securely store your personal information and isolate it from further processing until deletion or deidentification is possible.
